

A .gov website belongs to an official government organization in the United States. A lock () or https:// means you've safely connected to the .gov website. Share sensitive information only on official, secure websites. The Services Program works with various partners to prevent and reduce injuries and illnesses among the nation's 74 million service workers. Service workers work in diverse settings, such as offices, hotel rooms, restaurants, classrooms, waste management facilities, and personal care establishments. As a result, there are a variety of hazards that may affect the safety and health of these workers. The Services Program has selected research priorities on the basis of burden, need, and impact and collaborated with other NIOSH research programs to write the research goals in the NIOSH Strategic Plan for FYs 2019-2026. Priority areas include (but are not limited to): In 2022-2023, the Program: In the future, the Program aims to: Contact the Services Program with any questions or comments. Please enter your email address. More information on specific workplace safety and health topics and useful resources can be found on the following pages: The Services Program helps lead the National Occupational Research Agenda (NORA) Services Sector Council, which brings together individuals and organizations to share information, form partnerships, and promote adoption and dissemination of solutions that work.

The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 established NIOSH as a research agency focused on the study of worker safety and health, and empowering employers and workers to create safe and healthy workplaces. Languages Language Assistance Languages Language Assistance

